September Guest Artist Kathleen Alexander

Luminous, rich and vibrant are adjectives that come to mind when you allow your eyes to feast on one of Kathleen Alexander's paintings. And she has a keen eye for color and details. As one of her workshop participants stated, "...she'll point out colors in a simple photograph and I'd have to look real hard, but I'd start to see what she's seeing and wow! I never saw that, so the biggest thing I take away each time from her workshops is to pay more attention and really look, look for the subtle colors and color mixtures and hues." (Sheila Estep blogspot)

Kathleen actually began painting in watercolor in 1983 when she took her first drawing and painting class at San Francisco State University to fulfill a graduation requirement. She discovered she was more interested in her art class than in her major, but went on to earn a degree in biochemistry and worked in that field before starting her family. She did keep painting, but didn't take another art class until 1991 when she began taking evening classes in watercolor at a local community college. In the early 1990's, Kathleen studied watercolor with photo-realist painter Jim Torlakson who encouraged her and she began to paint seriously. In 1999, the Academy of Art College in San Francisco awarded her a one year scholarship. After having stayed home for ten years raising children, she found attending life drawing and graphic design classes in downtown San Francisco to be very exciting and her attendance there in 2000-2001 fulfilled her dream of attending art school.

Painting from photos she has taken in Hawaii and California, Kathleen sometimes combines many photos to create her composition. "I try to capture the grace and beauty of my subjects, and hope viewers of my paintings can share in the happiness they bring me. My goal is to make my paintings look alive." Currently, her primary subjects are tropical flowers and still life.

Kathleen is a signature member of the Northwest Watercolor Society and Watercolor West. She spends half of the year in Hawaii to paint and teach workshops, and the other half in California to do the same, as well as sell her artwork at art festivals around the country and travel for watercolor workshops. She enjoys art festivals because it's like having her "own art gallery for a weekend." In addition to exhibiting nationally, Kathleen is represented by Village Galleries in Maui and Hana Coast Gallery in Hawaii. She was featured in the April 2010 issue of Watercolor Artist magazine.

Her work has won awards in numerous juried watercolor competitions around the country, including: The Northwest Watercolor Society; the Watercolor Art Society, Houston; the Louisiana Watercolor Society; and Watercolor West. Recently, she won Third Place in the juried Statewide Watercolor Exhibition at the Triton Museum of Art in Santa Clara, CA. She also has had two paintings accepted into the 2013 issue of the Northlight Books publication, "SPLASH 14", a compilation of contemporary watercolor artists.

Join us for Kathleen's demonstration at the September meeting, when we will learn about her techniques for underpainting and glazing to achieve the luminous effects we see in her paintings.

For more information on Kathleen's September workshop, check out www.californiawatercolor.org/classes there are still a few places left.

Knowing When to STOP... painting... and...

It is always a bit of a challenge to know when to stop painting on the painting. As artists, we stand back, raise our brush, look backwards in the mirror, ask a friend, compare with the photo, cock our heads and, sometimes, start the process all over again before saying, STOP. Well, that is what the CWA Board of Directors is doing at times.

CWA board meetings are filled with very similar actions. CWA has evolved into current times for the benefit of our members. We raise our heads and listen to what is needed today. We compare that with what other contemporary organizations are successfully accomplishing. We ask members what they want, and read their comments. We do cock our heads a bit to determine if we understand correctly and try to figure out how we can apply what makes sense for all concerned. We stop and listen to the experts and do our best to keep CWA current with the times.

Here are a few recent developments:

- 2013 Nominating Committee appointed
- Electronic banking to be established
- Bookkeeping analysis soon to be completed
- 2013 Board position definitions to be evaluated and re-defined if necessary
- CWA is going paperless and green
- CWA Workshop Committee has a speaker system

I invite you to STOP for two reasons...

Please stop and let us know if you have suggestions about CWA as an organization. What needs applause, attention or change?

Please, STOP painting on your painting for the 43rd. If you haven't already and this newsletter reaches you on time, submit your entry by September 8th. It will be a great show. We look forward to raising our brush to all those who enter.

Thanks for being a part of CWA.

Here's to a happy wet brush,

From a Past President for Another Past President

Hello CWA members, some of you might remember being a member while Bill Yokoyama was President. We've recently learned he's engaged in a fight for his good health and we'd like to tell you a little bit about him so he knows how much we care and support him! If you were a member of CWA when we had our general meetings in Orinda, you'll know Bill Yokoyama. He brought CWA general meetings over to the bigger and better Shadelands Center while he served as President. Bill's been a juror for many CWA shows and always volunteers to help with the National Exhibition. When Bill Yokoyama is not jurying a CWA show, he's usually among the winners with his limited pallet, multiple glazed, paintings. We're behind you Bill, get well soon and come back strong!

LAST CWA WORKSHOP FOR 2012

KATHLEEN ALEXANDER

Detailed Realism in Luminous Color

September 17-21/All Levels

Kathleen teaches and paints in both Hawaii and California and exhibits nationally. Her workshop will focus on how to capture the grace and beauty of tropical flowers and still life, so that your paintings look alive. Kathleen will show you how to create smooth transitions in petals, and flowers that glow with an inner radiance by underpainting and glazing. She will also cover the choice of painting subjects and the importance of light and composition. Although the primary subject of this workshop is flowers, it is important to note that the techniques you will learn are totally transferable to any subject matter and many different styles of painting.

About her process, Kathleen says, "I paint from photos I've taken while in Hawaii and in California. Sometimes I combine many photos to create my composition. Lately, the focus of my painting has been tropical flowers and still life. I try to capture the grace and beauty of my subjects, and hope viewers of my paintings can share in the happiness they bring me. My goal is to make my paintings look alive."

We will catalog the books and have them all for sale at the October 17, 2012, meeting (cash or checks only). ## membership news

Dear Fellow Artists and Members of CWA,

We hope you are enjoying our new website and its facility of use and have had time to try it out. We have been working very hard to get information for and to you in the easiest, up to date, and user friendly way possible. Data manager, Anne Jacobson, Webmaster, Bruce Stangland, and Gloderworks, our server, have worked tirelessly to make our communications with you state of the art.

Two years ago we began the transition from paper copy of our newsletter to a virtual version. Hundreds of our members have embraced the change and are greeted at the first of each month with a full color version of our newsletter. Something we could never afford to do via snail mail. At the present time all but 50 of our members have access to a computer. However there still those ( about 200 members ) who for what ever reason still prefer to receive a paper copy of the newsletter via mail even though they have a computer. It may surprise you all to know that CWA's monthly cost for mailing approximately 250 newsletters is over $700. That comes out to more than $8400. a year. That cost is a pretty big part of our annual budget. Money we could be spending to bring you workshops with the top named artists in the country, as well as many more services to help you in your ongoing quest to paint more and paint with better knowledge, understanding, and tools as you enjoy your pursuit to be the best artist you can be.

Your board has discussed what to do as we move forward as an organization. We need to cut costs in order to balance our budget and see the elimination of paper copies of the newsletter as one way to do that. For those of you who are enjoying your newsletter online and perhaps printing out a copy to hold in your hand ( as many of us like to do), congratulations! You have made a step that is appreciated by all. The board is considering how to fairly handle the situation of a newsletter for those without a computer and those who still like to get snail mail. One possibility under consideration may be to charge a higher membership fee to those who still want this service. We invite your thoughts and consideration regarding this matter. If you have not made the leap to virtual newsletter viewing, please take a moment to go to californiawatercolor.org, where you can view newsletters current and going back several years. We hope that you will be pleased and perhaps rethink your position. Changing from paper to a virtual version is simple, just contact our data manager at: cwa.data@gmail.com, and request the change. You'll be glad you did and the board of directors will be grateful for your decision to change.

Wishing you a wonderful month filled with plenty of painting opportunities. Regards, Sue Johnston, Membership

Crab Cove CWA Paintout

by Carol Husslein

Are you up for a bit of adventure? CWA plein air painters are! My husband, Don and I go to places we have never been before and we LOVE it.

We arrived at Crab Cove in Alameda, parked, unloaded my painting supplies then headed out to find ‘my spot’ which didn’t take long. This park had so many vistas as you will see in the photos of paintings accompanying this article. Don walked the entire length of the park, finding all of our painters and observing all of the activities going on in the park. It has something for everyone and is a great on leash dog walking park.

The day started out a bit hazy however, before long we had to adjust our colors because the sun made its appearance. As a result, you may see some paintings depicting a foggy scene right next to one showing a bright sunny scene.

We gathered around a gnarled old pine tree at one o’clock to view everyone’s creations. I heard numerous people say, “Wow, our paintings are getting so good!” It would be interesting to view then-and-now paintings.

We went through our voluntary critique. However, if you are a bit shy, you don’t have to participate. I’ve picked up some great pointers from the other painters – weigh your painting down, separate sea and sky, where are your darks – the list goes on, but the tips are becoming less elementary in nature and more like “What would make this and awesome painting is ... .”

Joining me, Carol Husslein and guest Don Husslein, at Crab Cove were Juanita Hagberg, Irina Sztukowski and guest Masha Batkova, David Savellano, Betsy Trtek, Sara Kahn, Judy Rowe, Samantha McNally, Susan Hilgendorf and guest Henne Denzinger and Robin Moreno.

Our September 15 plein air outing will be at Pt Reyes, Pierce Pt. Ranch. Detailed information is available on the CWA website - www.californiawatercolor.org/paintouts.php

sponsorships

The CWA newsletter is accepting ads from anyone who would like to be a sponsor of CWA. The newsletter is sent out monthly to all of our members. It is a very effective way to reach a large audience of artists. All CWA artists paint with watercolors, but not exclusively. Many members also paint in oils, acrylic and pastels.

We are offering the following sponsor packages that reflect available advertising space. All ads, except Classified, run for a minimum of 3 months and are payable in advance. A 10% discount is available to CWA members, members also get classified ads for free. Deadline for insertion is the 10th of each month prior to publication (ie, February 10 for the March newsletter).

Formats accepted are digital or camera-ready artwork. Images should be scanned at 300 dpi. File format preferred is PDF, but we can accept JPG, TIFF, EPS files. All ads will appear in black and white in the print version, and in color in the email version.

Contact Patricia Rosa at newsletter@californiawatercolor.org or 925.348.1120 for further information.
